Engagement Announced

The engagement of Miss Louise Hall, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Homer Hall of this city, and Delmer Robinson, son of the late Charles L. Robinson of Winchester, Va., was announced this afternoon when Mrs. Hall, mother of the bride-to-be, entertained with a 1 o'clock luncheon of charming appointments at the Country Club. The rooms of the club house were tastefully decorated in fall flowers and greenery, and the long table which seated the guests was centered with a large mound of clematis and roses with streamers of ribbons extending from cards beneath the mound to corsages at each cover, while miniature kewpie dolls dressed as brides and grooms guarded each end of the serving table. The cards bore the names of the betrothed young couple and the date of the marriage.

Elaborate colonial corsages fashioned of Columbia, Opelia and Ward roses were placed at each cover and attached to the announcement cards.

An elegant course luncheon was served, and covers were laid for twenty-six guests, including Mrs. Charles Shuttlesworth of Clarksburg, the guests of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. A. D. Simon and Mrs. Robert E. Barnes of Parkersburg, the guest of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. George M. Alexander.

The announcement of the marriage came as a complete surprise to the many friends of the couple who did not know the marriage was to take place so soon. Mr. Jones and Miss Fleming had decided to go to Oakland yesterday morning to be married and had kept the fact a secret from their friends. When the morning broke so cloudy and threatening, it was decided to have the marriage performed here, however.

A number of relatives and friends were present for the ceremony, following which an informal reception was held and a salad course served. The bride was attended by Miss Marguerite Barnes as maid-of-honor, while Paul Hutchison attended the groom as best man. Miss Eleanor Blanche Barnes played the wedding march.

The bride was becomingly gowned in a costume of blue crepe and wore a corsage of pink roses.

Smith, as deputy when he held the position as U. S. marshal. She is an attractive and accomplished young woman and has been popular in society circles in this city and elsewhere in the state.

Mr. Jones is a son of the late Brent Jones and is a grandson of Mrs. Clara Jones of Maple avenue, with whom he made his home. Both the bride and groom belong to prominent families of this part of the state. He is associated in business with the Fairmont Auto Supply Co.

Following the reception, the weather having brightened, Mr. and Mrs. Jones left in their automobile for a honeymoon to be spent at various points in the state, following which they will come here to reside.

I'm Testing Love,' Says Girl Who Postponed Nuptials

HARRIET L. MAY

By ROY GIBBONS
CHICAGO, Aug. 15.—"When in love say 'Yes' to him but then wait at least a year before marrying—to see if your heart and head still meet on common ground."

This is the advice of Miss Harriet L. May, 20, wealthy society girl here, who has just caused a stir in social circles by indefinitely postponing her marriage to Commander Mario Vanni of the Royal Italian Navy.

"I've put my love in an incubator, if you want to call it that," she said through her mother, Mrs. John E. May, "and if at the end of a year it is still alive, I'll marry. I'm just a girl and want fully to make up my mind whether it was Venetian skies and soft words or my heart that really spoke when I gave my promise."

"We were to have been married this autumn, but I have changed my mind. I cannot say when the ceremony will take place."

Commander Vanni is a fine and noble man. There is not one fault to be found with him. It is only that I am young.

"Until I can weigh everything in the balance, I will not become his wife. Meanwhile I'll study and watch my heart daily. It is to be the jury and Commander Vanni will have his fair and impartial verdict after due deliberation."

PLANS TO RELIEVE SITUATION MADE

New Steps by Government in Coal and Rail Tie-Ups Now Expected.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 5.—With the convening of the Senate and House after the Labor Day adjournment and a meeting of the cabinet today the government was again centering its attention on the coal and rail situations. Return of officials and labor leaders who left the city to spend the holiday or fill speaking engagements, was expected to further bring to focus the industrial situation after the brief lull in developments. Attorney General Daugherty, who has been absent in the capital since his trip to Chicago to institute the government's injunction suit against the striking railway shopmen, was among those expected back.

The administration bill to prevent profiteering in coal prices was still before the Senate today. Chairman Cummins of the interstate commerce committee was prepared to continue his efforts to have the Senate substitute its own bill for that already passed by the House which he has stated has been outside the jurisdiction of the federal government by undertaking to regulate intrastate movement of coal. The constitutionality of the Senate bill also was under discussion when the Senate adjourned Saturday, several Democratic senators raising the question.

Discussion of the industrial situation in the light of the government's plan to relieve the situation was made today by Senator Reed said there undoubtedly would be some opposition to the anthracite settlement plan, but he added that he was confident that it would be approved by a wide margin.

During his talk with the President the Pennsylvania senator reviewed the negotiations conducted by Senator Pepper and himself with representatives of the miners and operators which resulted in the tentative settlement and gave Mr. Harding first hand information as to the present status of affairs in the anthracite fields. Nothing, he declared, has developed which might block ratification of the agreement.

Hoover Issues Statement.
Development of a plan whereby "the voice of the public may be heard" in conflicts between employer and employees such as in the coal situation was declared today by Secretary Hoover to be "one of the most vital issues before us."

In a formal statement discussing this phase of the industrial problem Mr. Hoover said:

"There is one fundamental lesson that the public should absorb from the coal situation and this lesson can be derived without discussion of the rights and wrongs of the demands of either mine workers or mine operators, or the incidents of negotiations in their settlement. That is a four months' suspension of production in the coal industry, while primarily a conflict between employer and employee brings the public in as the largest sufferer. The public is the victim of infinite loss; unemployment extends from it not only to the workers in the industry but to hundreds of thousands outside of it; great damage is done to commerce and industry; public health is jeopardized and a vast wave of crime and defiance of the law has ensued.

Yet the public has no voice in the negotiations and cannot express itself either to the right or wrong of the matter. The demands of either side may just or unjust but the largest majority concerned has no voice in the matter of adjustment."

Discussion of means of anthracite distribution probably will be taken up at a conference here tomorrow, Mr. Hoover indicated.
